

P U B L I C I S   D I A L O G

Recommendation for Adam Green

When you are in the advertising/communications business you learn quickly that you are only as good as the people who support what you ultimately take to your client. Your credibility is at stake every day and you must find people to work with that you know you can trust.

I trust Adam Green. As a supplier or vendor, he has repeatedly gone the extra mile to ensure that we get done what needs to get done. He has never wavered on that. I know I can count on him to do what he says. If ever there is a problem, I know that I can trust him to address it immediately and completely in only an honest and fair manner. As a friend, I know Adam as a truly good person.

Adam is extremely bright, detailed, organized and dedicated. He shows a great deal of maturity and common sense in his approach to problem solving and delicate situations. He has superb writing skills, and is a very effective verbal communicator. He is fair and diplomatic, which makes him popular and effective with the people who must rely on him.

Adam clearly stands out as a shining star. His cheerful demeanor and “can do” attitude has always given me confidence that I do not have to worry about his part in our overall effort with any client. His enthusiasm for new projects and challenges is refreshing. And his ability to assimilate new information and contribute intelligently to the overall process puts him above his peers.

I have watched Adam work effortlessly with every type of personality. He knows how to soothe bruised egos, and remain calm when the environment turns chaotic. He is always very careful to make sure that others get credit when they are due.

Adam is always eager, motivated and enthusiastic, no matter what the job ahead may be. He brings a refreshing energy and sense of humor to even the most tedious projects.

No matter what the task, Adam always makes sure the outcome more than meets the expectations.

With Adam’s intelligence, sense of fairness, diplomacy, and pleasing personality, he is someone that I can give my highest recommendation to. It is rare to have the opportunity to provide such an outstanding endorsement. In Adam’s case I can do it without reservation.

Sincerely,

Craig D. Taylor

Senior Principal

Managing Director Supervisor